LAST NIGHT'S STORM .- There was a dazzling display of electricity last night and a heavy downpour of rain. The storm lasted about two hours, beginning about nine o'clock and ending at nearly eleven, although the severity of the tempest was spent in half an hour's time. The entire heavens assumed a time. The earther heavens assumed a threatening picture before dark, and lightning was flashing from every point of the compass. Toward nine o'clock it became more dazzling, the thunder louder and rain began to fall. Then a high wind set in and with its roaring, the vivid lightning and the cracking. the vivid lightning and the crashing thunder a weird display of the elements tirely deserted, people being securely housed, either watching the antics of the celestial batteries from windows or huddled together in an apprehensive condition. Though the lightning flashes were almost incessant and the rattling of the thunder appalling, the damage which followed amounted to little. A tree on Prince street near the Citizens' National Bank was struck by lightning and some branches torn from it, and a large one in Mr. Henry Engelhardt's yard, in West End, was almost destroyed. Several others were more injured. The bark house of C. C. Smoot's Sons & Co.'s tanuery on the southwest corner of Parker, principal of Snowden Sonod. Wilkes and Pitt streets was struck and slightly damaged. This building, which was many years ago a foundry, was was many years ago a foundry, was struck by lightning and the east end knocked out in May, 1872, and a few years ago a heavy wind tore off the roof and almost wrecked it. It seems to be an inviting mark for the elements. Lightning also ran into the Columbia engine house on the tele-phone wire, making a noise not unlike wharf at Marshall Hali and anchored in the river until the storm subsided.

During the height of the storm it was deemed expedient to detach the trolleys of the electric cars from the wires and shut down the engines at the power house. A carload of excursion-ists were some distance down the road at the time on their return home. Their experience was doleful in the extreme—mid inky darkness, save when it lightened, a deluge of rain and a roaring wind they waited patiently for the storm to su side. As the tempest expended itself the current was again turned on and the exeursionists ar-rived safely in this city, none of the worse for having passed an hour in the woods amid such a display of nature.

RADE TRACK NOTES .- At St. Asaph vesterday Tabor was fined $100 and Crittenden and Murphy $25 each for delaying the start in the fourth race

The St. Asaph officials held a meeting after the last race yesterday to consider various pending cases. It was decided to permantly refuse the entries of Billy Boy and Marguerite, and to reinstate Jockeys Clare and Dorsey, beginning July 4. The Dama case went over until Friday. Regarding the bad race run by Minnie S on Monday, Judge Martin reported that he had examined the mare and found several bruises about her head, which he considered substantiated the statement of her owner and trainer that her poor showing was due to her having been kicked

FELL OVERBOARD.—Considerable excitement was occasioned on Prince street dock when the Colonial Beach excursion steamer City of Richmond arrived here shortly after ten o'clock last night. The steamer made a stern landing and after the gang plank had been thrown out Mr. Charles Howell, who had been to the beach with his who had been to the beach with his wife and family, came ashore with three of his children. He stepped on the gang plank again for the purpose of returning aboard for Mrs. Howell and her infant daughter, which was in a baby's carriage, when the plank slipped from the plank s the plank slipped from the wharf and that end fell into the river. Mr. Howell did not know in the darkness that his wife and baby were on the plank, but seeing a woman and a child struggling went to their rescue. One end of the plank remained on the steamer, thus forming a shute into the water, and the mate descended the water, and the mate descended the plank and rescued the trio. The steamboat men say the boat was forced from boat men say the boat was forced from the dock by the storm prevailing at the time, which caused the gang plank to slip. Others, however, say the boat had not been properly made fast, there being no stern line. It is also claimed that the wharf was not properly lighted. The occurrence brings to mind the drowning of Miss Dove at the same dock on the Fourth of July, 1891, from the steamer George Leary. Lieut, Smith was summoned to Washlegton to-day to appear as a witness in the safe burglar case against Williams, others.

Revs. John D. Powell and J. T. Hucheson, the latter of San Antonio, Tex., made short addresses, stating that with Rev. J. J. Same, D. D., they were present at the Seminary as three out of five surviving members of the class of 1854. They had held a united service of holy communion at Christ Church, Alexandria, that morning.

Adjournment then took place, after which the alumni repaired to the dining hall for their regular annual dinner. At night missionary services were held. Prayers were read by Rev. Mr. Lightbourne, late of the Bermudas, and the sermon was preached by Rev. Floyd Tomkins, D. D., of Providence, R. I. It was an excellent discourse. A large congregation was present.

THURSDAY-COMMENCEMENT DAY. The public exercises of to-day commenced at half-past ten a. m. with reading of essays by four members of the senior class—Messrs. Boogher, of the diocese of Missouri, Martin, of Vir-ginia, Patton and Scott, of Southern Virginia.

A recess then took place for colla-tion. After this at three o'clock in the evening the exercises were resumed and consisted of the presentation of diplomas to the following members of the graduating class: Messrs. Boogher, Cassell, Chrisman, E. W. Gamble, Kloman, Martin, Mead, Patton, Scott, Stanton and Temple.

An address was then delivered by Rev. Everard Meade, after which the benediction was pronounced by Bishop Whittle and the session of 1894-5 was numbered with the past.

A TRIBUTE TO MR. BLACKFORD. The session that has just closed is the twenty-fifth of Mr. L. M. Blackford's principalship of the Episcopal High school. The boys that have attended the school during that period realized that it was a time when the thanks of all friends of Christian education, and particularly of those who had learned to love Mrs. Blackford as a friend, should be tendered him in an emphatic way. This feeling materialized more than a year ago when a committee of old boys met for the purpose of securing some such testimonial. Hon. R. Walton Moore, of Fairfax, was chosen chairman and Mr. Pembroke Lea Thom, of Baltimore, treasurer. These gentlemen, acting with a larger committee consisting of one boy for each of the twenty-five sessions, raised the neces-sary funds and presented Mr. Blackford on Wednesday with an elaborate and beautiful silver service. The latter gentlemau was kept in complete ignorance of the whole movement until Tuesday evening. Immediately after the commence ment exercises proper Rev. J. Thomp son Cole, of New York, requested that the alumni be allowed to occupy the attention of the audience for a short while, and called Hon. R. Walton Moore to the chair. Mr. Moore stated that it was the wish of the old boys to mark this anniversary in a significant manner; that their gratitude and love for Mr. Blackford, their loyalty to the school, which was never more steadfas than it is to-day, the happy memory of the profitable and pleasant years spent there, all prompted them to some de-monstration of their affectionate regard. He said that he spoke not for the alumni of any age or of any section, but for the hundreds on hundreds, in all parts of the land, when he tendered the heartiest congratulations to Mr. Blackford upon the twenty-five years of any section and the section of the land, when he tendered the heartiest congratulations to Mr. Blackford upon the twenty-five years of any section of the land of t eminent success he had attained as principal. Whatever the future may hold for the school, he said, the past is secure; it stands for itself; the record is written and nothing can efface it. He declared that he old boys were ready to stand by the school at all times and all hazards, and that they would rally to her defence as a patriot would to the defence of his country when a peril threatened her. His earnest remarks were greeted by great applause, and when he finished he introduced Mr. Morgan H. Beach, of Alexandria, who made a witty and graceful presentation speech. He il-lustrated the love which the boys bear to Mr. Blackford and the school in after to Mr. Blackford and the school in after years by the story of a boy's love for his sweetheart that had grown stronger and deeper as the years rolled on. He said that all must feel a pride in the quarter of a century of steady, earnest work that had been done by Mr. Blackford in the training of youth, and as a mark of this pride in his achievements, as well as a token of their love for himas well as a token of their love for him-self, the old boys begged him to accept this tribute at their hands. When he finished the audience rose and sang "Auld Lang Syne," at the conclusion of which Mr. Blackford accepted the present in a gracious and touching speech, which was received with three ringing cheers from the boys.

The whole ceremony, though nearly impromptu, was most affecting and one long to be be remembered by all presnt. Never has an audience there ent. Never has an audience there shown deeper or more genuine feeling. The service, which is the manufacture of Mesars. Jacobi & Jenkins, of Baltimore, is a masterpiece of silver work. The loving cup has embossed upon it two pictures of the school, one as it was in 1870 and the other as it is

The committee are to be congratu-lated upon the taste displayed in the selection of this handsome present. selection of this handsome present.
Nothing could have better shown the high regard in which Mr. Blackford's qualities as an educator are held, and in no other way could their deep personal affection of his pupils have been more eloquently attested. DRY GOODS.
